

"I Refuse To Be Resigned"

He who made me knew best,
That I could never be resigned
To be held captive to a house,
A chair or a bed -
To be doted over and pampered,
Smothered by well wishers,
Fearful I might overdo.

I could never be resigned
To stay here motionless
He who made me knows me
Better than I know myself.
The window panes would be beckoning me to look outside -
And there, just beyond my reach would be all my friends Begging me to come out and play.
my tractor,
my trailer,
my shovel and hoe -
my plants, my garden,
All laid off in rows.

my darlings would resist.
"Daddy, don't go out - you can't.
The doctors say you must rest."
Wasted words on one such as I,
one so determined to do or die.
(1)

And, so die I did -

But mine was a timely going,
He who rules life and death knows best.

you see, He made me.

He made me a man of action,

A man on the move

A man to maneuver

A man to till the soil

To plant and sow

To smell the earth

To delight in her bringing forth.

I refuse to be resigned

To the old saying "What is mine is mine."

I refuse selfishness!

He made me a man to share -

"The earth is the Lord's and the fullness thereof."

His words growing in my soul

Prompting me to plant a garden

next to the road,

so those who pass by may stop

And partake of His blessings.

mine is a timely going.
I refuse to be resigned -
Resigned to stop,
And sit,
and wait.

I also refuse to be resigned for death.

I reject his knock at my door.
I will not answer.

I am a man made for action,
A man to maneuver.

I will not stop for death,
I am resigned

Only for Resurrection!
And that I shall have.

by Joe Jones
for Johnny Williamson
- my friend -