Biography

Kay Ellen Wruble was born in Harbor Beach, Michigan on February 28, 1950. Kay was one of seven children and the first child of Clarence and Marjorie Wruble to dedicate her career to the family agricultural business working for many years as the Office Manager in Ubly. Kay's super hero power rested in her commitment to supporting others. She was always your biggest fan, no matter what. She was generous and truly would do anything she could to help anyone, especially her many loved ones. Her disposition grew even sunnier as she grew older. Kay was a cheerleader. She loved watching sports and rooting for her favorite teams, which usually included one of her family members. During her own athletic career, she played a roving forward on the OLLH girls basketball team in the '60's because she was quick and hard to guard. Besides spending time with her family, Kay enjoyed bowling, coaching peewee girls basketball, playing (and usually winning) euchre, and raising her dogs, Mitzi, Cassie, Sadie, Sassy, Joey and Sam. Kay was as loved as she was loving. Her little yellow house served as a social hub for her many nieces and nephews, and their friends, who spent so much of their childhood together, laughing with her. The only rule at Kay's was, "no putting certs in your Vernors" (she said it made the kids go crazy).
