 Gospel: John 2: 1-11. "Extraordinary Things"

In these days that immediately follow our celebrations of Christmas, Epiphany and the Baptism of Jesus, all of the lights and decorations, all of the wreaths and pine boughs, all of the signs of these special feasts are gone. Our sanctuaries are relatively bare. And the focus of attention is now on us, the people of God, the followers of Jesus; we, too, who have been anointed by the Spirit of God we too have been baptized in His Spirit; we too have been sent to complete His mission.

St. Paul tells us that each of us has been blessed with special gifts and talents to accomplish this: wisdom, knowledge, faith - different kinds of gifts, different forms of service - all given freely and for a specific purpose.

The sanctuary may be bare but we are not. The decorations may be gone but the Spirit lives on in each of us. We are never alone. It may be "ordinary time" but we are called to do extraordinary things.
