

Craft 120 opened on July 14th, 2017 and is the result of a vision held by owner Mike Majors since he bought the building at 120 East Union Street ten years prior. Located behind Pontillo's Pizzeria, also owned by Mike, Craft 120 boasts a 1250 square foot deck overlooking the Erie Canal, as well as indoor seating in a beautifully crafted dining room. From the refurbished barn wood and brick on the walls to the marble and brass on the nearly century old bar with history going back to New York City, the restaurant has a rustic industrial feel.

Craft 120 features a revolving selection of craft beers on tap, craft cocktails and craft foods. The menu encourages sharing; the idea is for dining companions to sample several of their unique offerings. Such offerings include a bison burger or duck wings instead of your typical burger and chicken wings found up and down the street. An emphasis has been placed on using local products, such as New York State cheeses, produce, wines, beers and even local artwork adorns the walls.

Craft 120 is open for both lunch and dinner, with a new Craft Quick Fare menu available at lunch which includes craft soups, paninis and mini flatbread pizzas for those that need to eat and return to work quickly. There is even a late night menu available after hours until the bar closes. The restaurant offers live musical performances on Thursdays from 7-10pm throughout the winter, and will hold performances on the deck once it opens again in the Spring.

If you haven't checked out Craft 120 yet, come experience Newark's newest addition to the dining scene and see what you've been missing!
