

This is Hannah Edwards, and she is 18 years old. She is a senior at Leon High School. She was born in Tallahassee, Florida but also claims Havana, FL as her home. Havana is where her roots of grandparents begin, and other relatives reside. She recalls mostly of her childhood being raised around farm animals, and green pastures. As a kid she was very shy, hardly voicing her thoughts to anyone. Hannah is an only child being raised by her mother, Beth Tharpe. Recently, Hannah went for a school term to live in Thailand, there she would attend school and live as teens her age would live. It was in high school that Hannah began to evolve, seeing a huge difference when she went abroad to live as an exchange student. When Hannah returned, she would no longer fear her future, for she is ready to take on the world, and continue to explore her greatest achievements by attending college after high school graduation.

"The future is just ahead, so pay close attention to the path you take. It is the journey destined to be yours!"
