Trip Cancellation

If you cancel your trip with Island Hoppers Scuba after the initial deposit, that deposit is refundable only if we are able to resell the trip at full price. If Island Hoppers Scuba is not able to resell your trip reservation at full trip price then there is no refund.

Trip Deposits cannot be moved to another trip.

Refunds will be made after the trip has been concluded less any applicable credit card fees.

Cancellations made within 120 days before departure of trip there is no refund.

This is regardless of the destination or airline policy for refunds. If the refund policy of the provider of services are stricter than those of Island Hoppers Scuba then the providers refund policy will be followed. Most liveaboard trips have stricter policies.

Island Hoppers Scuba recommends travel insurance for every trip.

Cancellations Due to Covid Or Destination Entry Requirements

Cancellations due to illness or covid are non refundable as these are usually under the 120 day policy. We recommend travel insurance for this reason.

If a destination changes its entry requirements concerning vaccinations that is the travelers responsibility. There are no refunds. We recommend travel insurance.

Deposits and Late Payments

No trip reservation is made until initial deposit is received. Due to the high demand of our trips we cannot hold reservations without deposits.

Failure to make subsequent deposits by due dates shall result in loss of deposits and reservation on trip.

Final payments are due on the date specified for the trip reservation. For the first 2 days past the Final Payment date there is a $25 per day late fee per person on the reservation. After 2 days of being late with a Final Payment that reservation will automatically be cancelled. There are no refunds of previous payments even if Island Hoppers Scuba resells the reservation.
