Capital Campaign to complete the restoration of the Bonine House and the Carriage House by 2017

FUNDRAISING GOAL: $350,000

The Underground Railroad in Cass County

Between 1840 and 1860 over 1500 fugitive slaves (now called freedom seekers) came through Vandalia, MI on the Illinois and Quaker lines of the Underground Railroad (UGRR). They were aided on their journey to freedom in Canada by Quakers and free blacks in the area; sheltered in ‘stations’ and taken to the next stop by ‘conductors.’ The stories of the UGRR in Cass County and the people involved have been extensively researched by URSCC, and disseminated through our website, a 14-site driving tour, and local events throughout the year. The Bonine House and Carriage House will serve as focal points to continue and expand these educational efforts.

The Bonine House—Penn Rd and M-60 Vandalia, MI

Built by abolitionists James E. Bonine and Sarah Bogue Bonine around 1845, the Bonine House was home to the Bonine Family, including MI State Senator G. Elwood Bonine, for over 100 years. Originally built as a Greek Revival, it was remodeled and enlarged in the Second Empire style, adding its signature mansard roof and tower, around 1870. The Bonine House is architecturally important, as well as being the home of stationmasters on the Underground Railroad (UGRR). The Bonine House is being restored to be used as a community events center downstairs, and a center for education on the UGRR in Cass County upstairs, including a library/research room and display rooms.

The Carriage House—Calvin Center Rd and M-60 Vandalia, MI

Situated across the street from the Bonine House, the Carriage House was built by James E. Bonine around 1850 in the Gothic Revival style. There is a large body of evidence that the Carriage House was a station on the Underground Railroad, and freedom seekers were sheltered there by James E. and Sarah Bonine. The Carriage House is being restored as a period museum and Underground Railroad station.
