Interprofessional Leadership Development Program (ILDP)

Save the Date: February 6-8, 2019*

Who
The IPEC Interprofessional Leadership Development Program (ILDP) is designed to include both deans (and other senior academic administrators with similar institutional responsibilities) and administrators who are responsible for integrating IPE in school-wide learning experiences. Deans and senior administrators from multiple schools at the same institution are strongly encouraged to attend along with their campus-wide IPE administrator. Participants must be from IPEC member associations schools.

What
The IPEC ILDP is a three-day, interactive professional development experience, distinguished by an emphasis on leading in an interprofessional environment. It is unique because the ILDP engages both senior leaders and administrators responsible for the development, implementation, and evaluation of a campus-wide IPE program. The IPEC ILDP is facilitated by faculty from the Academy for Advancing Leadership (AAL), an Atlanta-based organization with extensive experience in health professions education, and national and internationally recognized leaders.

Why
The IPEC ILDP provides an unparalleled learning experience for deans, senior administrators, and those who lead the effort to organize campus-wide IPE. The program includes topics such as: personal and interpersonal competencies for IPE leadership; managing conflict associated with IPE; strategies for implementation of IPE; leadership during institutional and cultural change; engaging in national IPE initiatives; building coalitions and teams; and IPE outcomes assessment. In addition, each institution represented will bring an IPE project to the program on which to apply ILDP learning.

Where
AAMC Learning Center
655 K Street NW
Washington, DC, 20001-2399

*IPEC will release the Call for Applications in August 2019.