

Stay the Course

I think its pretty clear that God has a purpose for each of our lives. Your relationship with Him is the most important, and through that relationship you see His purposes for your life.

Yet, even once you discover that purpose, and begin walking in it, you must remain steadfast or diligent to walk in what He's asked you to do. You need to focus on what matters. Not on whats happening around you, not on what others are doing.

I think when you stay focused on (HIM) you will be amazed at what you see Him do.

Luke 4:42-44, "Now when it was day, He departed and went into a deserted place. And the crowd sought Him and came to Him, and tried to keep Him from leaving them; but He said to them, 'I must preach the kingdom of God to the other cities also, because for this purpose I have been sent.' And He was preaching in the synagogues of Galilee."

I want you to notice something Jesus said, "For this purpose I have been sent."

Jesus knew His purpose. Then He said, "I must preach the kingdom." But this is where things got interesting. Notice what it says, " they tried to keep Him from leaving."

Can I be real with you? People or life's situations will always try to keep you from doing your purpose.

Honestly, I am sure the people meant well (or maybe they didn't), but either way, an attempt was made to prevent Jesus from doing what God called Him to do. If an attempt was made against Jesus, don't you think the enemy is going to try and do that to you?

You have got to get to the place where things can't distract or stop you from what you are suppose to do. Paul knew his purpose, and I am sure its a verse you've heard many times over. 1 Corinthians 9:26, "So I run straight to the goal with purpose in every step."

You need to stay the course on what God has called you to.
