Richard Nannis said he has a Ryobi plunge router for sale and Rudy said that Don Watson has a 20” Oneway bowl coring tool for sale. Call these club members for details if you’re interested. Also, there is a Shop Fox mini-lathe for sale for $100. If you are interested in the nice starter lathe, please call Carl.

If you have something you’re looking for or that you wish to sell related to woodturning, please send your information to John Malinowski at n8bgm@aol.com and he will send them out to the Club members.

SAFETY:

The “SawStop” table saw safety feature was discussed at tonight’s meeting. The SawStop has been included on some new table saws for several years, but it was announced that there is now an add-on SawStop equipment that can be installed on other saws. The SawStop feature will prevent serious injuries if any part of an operators’ body touches the blade. It can be a real lifesaving feature and people that use table saws should consider getting one.

DEMONSTRATION:

Our demonstrator for this month was Rudy Lopez. At the last minute, Rudy agreed to be our demonstrator for our meeting when it was learned that our scheduled demonstrator, Jeff Hornung of the Walnut Log, had to cancel his demonstration due to a last-minute conflict. Hopefully we will be able to re-schedule Jeff for a future demonstration at a club meeting.

Rudy is a longtime member of Tri-County Woodturners and has become a nationally known and respected professional woodturner and instructor: (<https://rudolphlopez.com/>). For the demonstration this month, Rudy's demonstrated how he turns finials.

Finials are made using spindle turning techniques with the grain of the wood oriented parallel to the ways of the lathe. Wood blanks as small as $\frac{3}{4}$ " inch square can be used for the finials with the blank held between centers, and then held in a chuck. Pin jaws are a good choice for jaws to be used in the chuck. Rudy begins turning his finials using a spindle roughing gouge to make a tapered cone shape and then uses a spindle or detail gouge to make basic beads and coves to shape the finial. Finials are turned beginning on the tail stock end and then turned progressing back towards the headstock and chuck. It was recommended that both left and right-handed turning techniques can be used to comfortably make finials. It's a little difficult at first, but soon, you will be turning using both hands to control the gouges. Rudy also suggested using gouges sharpened with a 40° bevel to create finer details on your finials.

Rudy then went on to show some of his designs and discussed some other professional demonstrators, such as Cindy Drozda who is known for creating very nice and exceptionally artistic finials. She has also designed a Vortex specialty tools to make her finely detailed finials. This is a link to one of her sites: http://www.cindydrozda.com/html/DVD_ElegantFinials.html .

Following the meeting, President Jim Henderson indicated that for the May 5th TCWT meeting, Walt Wager will be our virtual demonstrator using Zoom. Walt will be teaching us how to design and turn a cremation urn so that we could possibly make one if called upon by a neighbor or a friend.

As told by Walt, on his website: "In 2002 I ran into a woodturning exhibit by a local Tallahassee woodturner. He convinced me to come to the North Florida Woodturners meeting, and I was hooked. I purchased a lathe, and attended many demonstrations and workshops. Twelve years later, I started teaching woodturning classes, and am presently the resident instructor and coordinator of Camelot's Woodworking Studio. I have been selling my work at art fairs, the Tallahassee downtown market, and two galleries, Wiregrass Artists Co-op, Thomasville, GA, and Signature Art Gallery, Tallahassee, FL." Enjoy browsing the web site - and check out the videos. waltwager@gmail.com

The meeting was closed after the demonstration at 8:50 PM.

Here's hoping everyone is staying safe and enjoying their time in their woodturning shops.

OLD BUSINESS:

President Jim Henderson updated the club members with the following information stating that he has not heard from the County about the use of the Community Center for our meetings. He will let everyone know if it looks like we’ll be returning to in-person meetings any time soon.

Also, it was reported that both Bill Freeze and Rick Troup were at the Fair, along with other member to meet and discuss woodturning with the Fair attendees. There were about 4 – 5 club members that submitted pieces for judging and many ribbons were awarded to some of the club members.

The members that submitted their pieces were: Steve Parker, Richard Nannis, Carl Brown and Jan DeCamp-Brown. The pieces by Carl and Jan were some that they submitted at the Fair for judging. All of the turned pieces for Show & Tell by our club woodturners are featured on our webpage. For the Virtual Meeting, the pieces were shown by Carl Brown and those members that were present at the Virtual Meeting were asked to discuss them.

SAFETY:

Bandsaw safety was discussed at the meeting this month. It was pointed out by John Long that using a dull blade on the bandsaw is a good way to cause an injury. With a dull blade, you have to push the piece too hard into the blade for it to cut and if a weak part of the wood is encountered it can lead to your hand going into the blade. The cost of a new bandsaw blade not worth a serious injury. KEEP ALL OF YOUR TOOLS SHARP AND CHANGE YOUR BLADES WHEN THEY BECOME DULL!

DEMONSTRATION:

Our virtual demonstrator for this month was Walt Wager. Walt provided a very informative demonstration on how to design and turn a cremation urn. Designing and turning an urn may be something you will possibly be asked to make by a neighbor or a friend sometime.

As told by Walt, on his website: "In 2002 I ran into a woodturning exhibit by a local Tallahassee woodturner. He convinced me to come to the North Florida Woodturners meeting, and I was hooked. I purchased a lathe, and attended many demonstrations and workshops. Twelve years later, I started teaching woodturning classes, and am presently the resident instructor and coordinator of Camelot's Woodworking Studio. I have been selling my work at art fairs, the Tallahassee downtown market, and two galleries, Wiregrass Artists Co-op, Thomasville, GA, and Signature Art Gallery, Tallahassee, FL." Enjoy browsing the web site - and check out the videos. waltwager@gmail.com

Walt went through a good and brief demonstration of some of the design considerations for making an urn as well as woodturning methods that can be used in turning an urn. He then demonstrated the hollowing process using a system designed and sold by Lyle Jamison. He regards his system as one of the best Captive Bar hollowing systems available. Following the meeting, he provided a link to a video discussing various hollowing systems that can be used in woodturning. Walt also discussed his thoughts about sizing an urn and indicated that typically you should turn an urn based on a cubic inch per pound of body weight. He also showed a method for determining the volume of urns along with a conversion table for designing an urn.

In addition to this helpful information, he also provided a document showing some of his various urn shapes and designs. All of these various documents have been posted on our webpage in the "Turning Projects & Safety" section on the site.

Following the meeting, President Jim Henderson indicated that for the June 2nd TCWT meeting, Larry Randolph of Springfield, MO will be our demonstrator. Larry will demonstrate how to turn and finish a No Sand/Low Sand platter and everyone would like to sand less. Larry is a local, regional, and national woodturner.

The meeting was closed after the demonstration at about 9:00 PM.

Here's hoping everyone is staying safe and enjoying their time in their woodturning shops.

President Jim Henderson updated the club members with the following information stating that the County is still enforcing COVID restrictions for the use of the Community Center. He will let everyone know if it looks like we’ll be returning to in-person meetings any time soon.

Also, it was reported that both Bill Freeze and Rick Troup were at the Fair, along with other member to meet and discuss woodturning with the Fair attendees. There were about 4 – 5 club members that submitted pieces for judging and many ribbons were awarded to some of the club members.

The Vice President position remains open.

NEW BUSINESS:

There will be no meeting in July due to the AAW Virtual Symposium being held in July, family vacations and the close proximity to July 4th.

SHOW & TELL:

There were four (4) Club members this month that submitted pieces for display of their work for Show & Tell. The members that submitted their pieces were: Steve Parker, Matt O’Connor, Carl Brown and Patrick Sikes. All of the turned pieces for Show & Tell by our club woodturners are featured on our webpage. For the Virtual Meeting, the pieces were shown by Carl Brown and those members that were present at the Virtual Meeting were asked to discuss them.

In the future, we will continue to feature pieces for Show and Tell on the webpage. As before, members were encouraged to go to our website (www.TriCountyWoodTurners.com) to view the pieces. Descriptions are also included on the website about the turned pieces.

No safety discussion.

DEMONSTRATION:

Our virtual demonstrator for this month was Larry Randolph of Springfield, MO. Larry gave a very informative demonstration on how to turn and finish a No Sand/Low Sand platter. Like everyone else, it’s always good to sand less. Larry is a local, regional, and national woodturner.

As shared by Larry prior to our meeting, he began turning in his father’s shop when he was teenager. He didn’t get back to turning until about 15 years later and like many other turners he started turning pens and other small turning projects on a Jet Mini lathe. After a while he then moved up to a full-size lathe and started turning larger items.

His love of the beauty of highly figured woods allowed him to turn items to attempt to show off the grain of the wood in a piece. However, he said that he is finding a lot of pleasure in turning more mundane and plain woods and embellishing them. His embellishing techniques include carving, texturing or coloring. He said that he finds a lot of pleasure in using duller wood to make them his own.

Larry is a full-time video producer and uses his production skills to enhance his demonstrations. His demonstration was quite informative in showing everyone how he limits his sanding through his embellishing techniques. And by embellishing, he is limiting his time in sanding his final products. During the demonstration Larry discussed numerous tips and techniques including:

- Using a D-Way beading tool
- Using a Needle Scaling tool
- Different dyes and paints
- Dry brush technique
- Air brush

NEXT MONTH'S DEMONSTRATOR

No meeting will be held in July. The next meeting will be on August 4th.

The meeting was closed after the demonstration at about 9:00 PM.

Here's hoping everyone is staying safe and enjoying their time in their woodturning shops.

TRI-COUNTY WOODTURNERS

Raffle tickets can be purchased at a suggested donation of $10 per ticket, with a total of 1,000 tickets (500 will be available before the Symposium and 500 during the symposium). No purchase is necessary. The drawing for the winners will be done during the Saturday, Feb 19, 2022, evening program which starts at 5 PM. Some of the woodturning items to be raffled at the FWS can be viewed on the FWS webpage.

NEW BUSINESS:

President Henderson stated that Carl and Jan Brown are retiring from working on the video and still photography crew. At this time Mark Nienstadt, Dan Penn and Luke Wiezycki have now volunteered to be part of the crew, but more volunteers are needed. Please contact Jim in you are interested in being part of the team.

The members that submitted their pieces were: Mark Nienstadt, Peitro Monfredo, Steve Parker, Bob Rice, Rick Troup, Richard Nannis, Dave & Denise Jolliffe and Bob Perez. All of the turned pieces for Show & Tell by our club woodturners are featured on our webpage. For the Virtual Meeting, the pieces were shown by Carl Brown and those members that were present at the Virtual Meeting were asked to discuss them.

BUY and SELL:

Art Worth said that he has a Dust collector/separator for sale for $50. Contact Art if you're interested in purchasing the dust collector, which is at Art's studio in Dunedin.

If you have something you're looking for or that you wish to sell related to woodturning, please send your information to John Malinowski at n8bgm@aol.com and he will send them out to the Club members.

SAFETY:

There was a brief safety discussion about the need to wear good foot protection when doing woodturning. Boots or steel-toed safety boots should be worn when working in your shop or doing any other associated woodturning work such as using a chain saw, loading lumber, etc.

DEMONSTRATION:

Our virtual demonstrator for this month was professional woodturner and instructor, Jim Echter from New York state. Jim has been a demonstrator for National AAW Symposium and a contributor to The American Woodturner. He gave a great demonstration on using the (dreaded) skew. To help people learn how to use this tool, he demonstrated a simplified approach to using the skew.

The skew should be used on spindle turned pieces and can be used to make ornaments, pens, peppermills, Newel posts, chair rungs and finials. Jim indicated that only a few skews are needed in your shop and he said that most of his work is done using 1/2" and 3/4" rectangular skews. He prefers straight skews and does not like curved or oval-shaped skews.

Jim discussed proper sharpening methods as well as the proper sharpening angles needed to have a properly sharpened (safe) skew. He said that the proper skew angle is 70 degrees and the proper bevel angles are between 25 to 35 degrees. Sharpening is key to learning how to successfully use the skew. Jim demonstrated that when a skew is used correctly, it can leave one of the cleanest cuts that can be made on the lathe.

Jim's website True Creations Woodturning, provides a lot of information for using the skew and his webpage is: www.tcturning.com If you wish to contact Jim directly his email address is: Jim@TCTurning.com. Jim suggested that if you want to learn to use a skew, you should initially purchase a couple of inexpensive rectangular skews and practice on 1-1/2" pine blanks, 10" long.

NEXT MONTH'S DEMONSTRATOR

The next TCWT meeting will be on Wednesday, September 1st, and the demonstration for next month's meeting will feature Glenn Ploeckelmann, and Rudy Lopez. These experienced woodturner will show how to turn a sea urchin ornament. They will demonstrate how to prepare the sea urchin, turn the top and bottom finials, install the finials, and apply the finish. The demonstration in September should give enough time to make your own ornaments to give as Christmas presents. The sea urchins are available from Amazon, Ebay, or Etsy. Glenn has indicated that also has a few at his shop in Lutz.

The meeting was closed after the demonstration at about 9:00 PM.

Here's hoping everyone is staying safe and enjoying their time in their woodturning shops.

DEMONSTRATION:

Our virtual demonstrator for this month was our own Glenn Pleockelmann with technical support by Rudy Lopez. Glenn gave an excellent demonstration on how to turn Sea Urchin Christmas Ornament. During the demonstration Glenn discussed numerous tips and techniques on the type of Urchins to use, how to prepare them to accept the finials and how to turn the finials. Several other club members also added tips and suggestions.

NEXT MONTH'S DEMONSTRATOR

Next month's meeting on October 6th will feature Linda Ferber demonstrating her Lazy Summer Platter. As provided by Jim Henderson, here is some information about Linda:

"The October 6th TCWT Zoom demonstrator will be Linda Ferber from Minnesota, artist, local, and regional turner, as well as a member of the Women In Turning. Linda recently retired from AAW after both serving as a volunteer as well as a Program Director. You may have met Linda at the FL Woodturning Symposium where she represented the AAW for several years. Linda is going to demonstrate how to turn her Lazy Summer Day Platter. The platter is turned, carved and colored with acrylic paint.

Linda learned about wood working through her father, a hobby woodworker who mainly did flat work. As he got better at it, he devoted more time to it. She became his biggest customer for custom work. And then they started to work together. As time went on, he could no longer safely handle the equipment. And like a lot of people, he liked to buy tools and equipment including a lathe although he never used it. But he had one, so during the tool auction she bought the lathe to continue working with wood. She then decided to learn how to really use it. Linda took classes with her first teacher being Alan Lacer. He advised her to join the Minnesota Wood Turner's Club and the AAW, so she did. The rest is history."

The meeting was closed after the demonstration at about 9:00 PM.

Here's hoping everyone is staying safe and enjoying their time in their woodturning shops.
