Quarter 3

HAPPY FALL!!!!

We hope everyone is having a wonderful fall season! JACY House Staff have enjoyed spending time out in the community and doing all the fall activities! We look forward to serving our community this next quarter!!

Mission

Through forensic interviews, advocacy, and education, JACY House will create an environment for children and families that is child-centered and trauma-informed, so that healing can begin!

Vision

Protect and nurture our children to strengthen our community!

Purpose

Where voices are heard, healing starts, and hope is restored!

Community Events

JACY House staff has been out and about in the community this past quarter! We have loved seeing community members and further educating the public on what we do! We are so thankful for each opportunity to educate our community and spread awareness!

MEET OUR INTERNS

- Brittany -

My name is Brittany Stegall. I'm a second-year Human Service student at Ivy Tech with plans to transfer next fall to earn a bachelor's in social work. I enjoy taking walks with my family & playing with my boys- ages 7 and 14. In my rare free time, I like to garden while listening to informational true crime or reading.

- Willow -

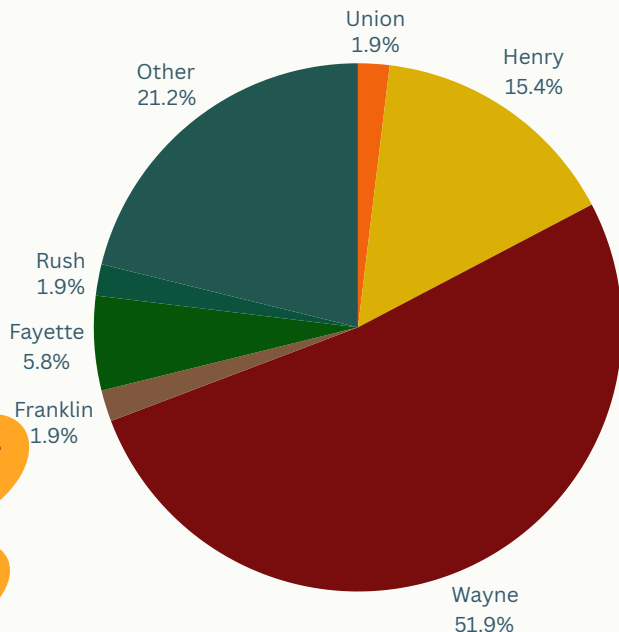

I'm a Richmond native and graduate from Northeastern High school. I'm currently in my last year of undergrad at Earlham College where I'm majoring in Social Work. Post graduation, I plan to return back to school for clinical psychology. I keep myself busy by playing basketball, watching lots of Netflix, and working on my senior capstone :) !

~ Quarter 3 Recap ~

We conducted 52 forensic interviews in Quarter 3 (July-September) and served 10 different counties!!

What is a forensic interview?

A forensic interview is a neutral, fact-finding interaction conducted by a specially trained interviewer using a multi-disciplinary approach in response to allegations of alleged abuse and/or maltreatment. Children ages 3-17 come to JACY House when there has been a report that the child may have experienced some form of abuse or may have witnessed violence. The forensic interviewer allows the child to talk about the events in a one-on-one discussion with the multi-disciplinary team observing from an adjacent room. A forensic interview is not an interrogation, but a non-threatening and non-leading interview.

Upcoming Community Opportunities

JACY House is now offering the Darkness to Light Stewards of Children training to adults in the community. This 2.5 hour training is great for any organization or person that wants more information on how to prevent and respond to child abuse.

* If you are interested in this training please reach out to Erika, our Community Educator at erika@jacyhouse.org ****

DARKNESS TO LIGHT'S
STEWARDS
OF CHILDREN®

JACY House will be partnering with the Dwyer Center to offer parenting classes in Wayne County! Classes will cover an array of parenting topics (self care, safe sleep etc.)! Be on the lookout for more information!!

If you are interested or want more information, please reach out to our Advocacy Coordinator, Amy at amyjo@jacyhouse.org
