RetroSound

Have you restored or improved your Triumph Spitfire, TR4, or TR6, but haven't gotten around to the radio yet? If so, then read on.

James Tate of RetroSound has become one of our regular Touch of England show sponsors.

Retro Manufacturing specializes in the design and engineering of innovative radios, speakers, antennas, and accessories for the classic car market. RetroSound products offer modern sound with contemporary features and conveniences, but with classic styling and a period correct look.

RetroSound radios fit most classic vehicles. If their vehicle search tool doesn't return a hit for your car, you can send in the measurements of your dash opening and they will try to find a fitment that works for your vehicle. You can select a stock radio or you can build your own radio from a wide selection of faceplates, bezels, and knobs.

The RetroSound website contains a wealth of information on available products. For example: Screen Protectors, DIN Dash Opening Kits, Stereo Replacement Speakers, Dash Speakers, Kick Panels, Speaker Pods, Amps & Subwoofers, Antennas, and Sound Dampening Mats.

There are also website pages that offer accessories and replacement parts. Plus User Manuals, How to Videos, FAQs and Basic Troubleshooting, a Wiring Primer, Speaker Basics, as well as a Discussion Forum.

For those SiriusXM listeners, RetroSound has Sirius XM-Ready radios. There's also a RetroSound newsletter. You may subscribe if you wish, and receive the latest news and product announcements via email.

New Jersey dealers can be located through the RetroSound website.
