Serious cost control.

Point of Success Inventory is your best tool for tracking and controlling food cost. Think about this: Every dollar you save on food cost goes straight to profit! Your reward for using an inventory system is a more consistent guest experience, a smoother operation and more money in the bank.

From ingredients to recipes

Basic inventory items are combined into recipes for the items on your menu. After food is prepared and sold, sales from your Point of Success POS software are converted into usage information, automatically reducing inventory. Includes shortcuts for recipe creation like sub-recipes, production recipes and special provisions for inventory items, like canned soda, that need no preparation.

Easier purchasing and receiving

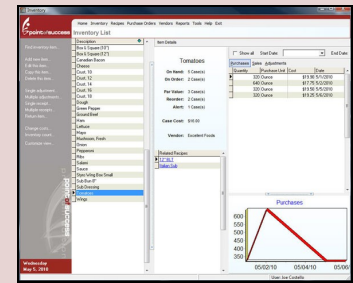

Inventory suggests reorder quantities and can even create your purchase orders. Receiving inventory is as simple as confirming the quantity and cost when your order arrives.

Inventory counts, adjustments and alerts

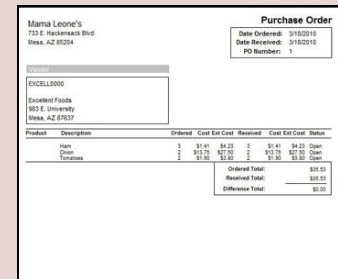

Entering your inventory count automatically matches your on-hand inventory to your inventory records. Adjustments are created to identify discrepancies. At-a-glance information on critically low stock is available right on the main Inventory screen.

Reports for timely business information

Reports are included to help identify critical inventory differences, get the value of your current inventory, total the inventory costs for a period and more. Reports like recipe cards with preparation instructions, printed purchase orders and inventory count sheets help make training easier and improve your operation.

Use the Inventory Item Overview to see that item's on-hand and on-order quantity, recipes that use the item, purchase history and more.

Use the shopping list to create purchase orders to automatically bring your stock to the level it needs to be.

Use Quick View Panels for inventory alerts, fast access to receive open purchase orders, sales history and more.
