

The Dharma Horses & their stories

Grits

Grits belonged to a riding student of Katharine. This kind young woman had to move across the country and Grits was having soundness issues. Because selling a beloved horse to an unknown person or through a sale can be a likely start on the path to slaughter - Grits' person gave him to us to live at DH in sanctuary under the herbal care of Katharine and the hoof care of Taran, putting supportive shoes (after a long period of hoof boots) on his front feet where the very thin walls and soles had led to injury. Grits also had an injured tongue that has totally healed after being put into a "Lindell" bitless bridle!

Grits has taught beginners and advanced riders. He goes down the trail confidently and has his own unique style of relating to people and other horses. It is an ongoing project to keep him sound, but he is so worth the effort. All the horses are!!
