A beautiful day for our annual World Series practice round. A very energetic and enthusiastic group. There were the riders (in a golf cart) and the walkers (the 4 horsemen). A horsemen, Mike Jeffries came away with the win. He tied the front, won the back and the overall with a 34/34 68. He was also the first ever winner of the hottest new game in golf in the DGA, Quota. Well, initially he wasn't but then after an audit of the cards he was awarded the win. Thanks, Greg Cavallo for the beers as the almost winner but 2nd place finisher (we will be playing on Saturday, $5/man) .

One notable, George Canfield played as a 3 today which is the lowest handicap ever played in a DGA round (unofficially, until verified) and it sure was challenging.

All you haters should take note that these results were delivered on the same day as the round was played. The Commissioner always delivers.
