

Nicholas Brennan Solos: Nicholas Brennan (right) stands with his flight instructor Geoff Orlandi after Nick successfully completed his first solo flight at Blirstown Airport on May 12. Nicholas is a North Warren senior and is in training with Orlandi to earn his Private Pilot Certificate. Solo is the first milestone in becoming a pilot, where the student gets the opportunity to pilot the aircraft as the only occupant, putting to use the knowledge and skills learned through flights with the instructor and ground study. Solo demonstrates the student's proficiency in the fundamentals of flight and is a proud moment for both the student and instructor. Nick will now go on to complete his training with Orlandi, who operates Endless Mountains Air, a full service flight school at the airport. Nicholas then plans to major in a Professional Pilot degree program while in college. For more information on learning to fly for pleasure or flying as a career choice contact Orlandi at 201-874-5458.

Nicholas Brennan (right) and Vincent Orlandi (left), 2012 graduates of North Warren Regional High School, are new FAA licensed pilots, having passed their oral and flight tests on August 17th. They each received their ground and flight training from Geoff Orlandi, a flight instructor at Blirstown Airport. Congratulations to Nick and Vincent and best of luck in college. For more information about flying and to start your own flight training, contact Orlandi at 201-874-5458 or stop by the airport, where Orlandi's flight school is open full time to serve the needs of aspiring pilots and seasoned aviators
