

It's about INTEGRITY

What we know for sure is that politicians, and particularly democrat politicians, have no integrity. They lie about Russian collusion. They lie about manufactured crisis on the border with Trump, then no crisis on the border with Biden. They lie about climate change ending human life on this planet in 12 years, or 9 if you are John Kerry. They lie about those who doubt those last salacious predictions, calling them science deniers. And then they lie about their concern for women's rights by supporting the abortion industry. If democrat politicians believed in science and had any integrity, they would have to admit what the science tells us: Life begins at conception. Everything necessary for human life is present in the embryo formed at the time of conception. All DNA is present as the embryo continues to grow as a human being. The lie is tied to the law, and not the truth. The law says that a woman has the right to privacy in order to allow a 'medical professional' to kill her baby. (At any stage of development in the state of New Mexico, and a few other states.)

While politicians quibble about heartbeat limitations on abortion, they miss the most critical and damning scientific evidence in front of them; that an innocent human being is in the womb from the moment of conception. Intentionally ending the life of an innocent human being is the very definition of murder. Using the interpretation of a court case from 1973 as giving permission to a woman and her 'medical' provider to end the life in her womb may give some solace to each that it is legal, but they are lying to themselves that it is right. This country needs to wake up. We have become so calloused and inhumane that we no longer value life at all. If we can 'legally' kill the innocent baby, why not walk up to a cop in his or her car and point blank execute them without warning. We kill cops and children with abandon in our largest cities and most people don't even know about it, since it is not even reportable news as it is so common, much less care about it.

The solution to this dire crisis in our society starts with integrity. We have to be honest with ourselves that our government is broken, and we are the only ones who can fix it. This is not entirely a democrat or republican issue, as both parties are culpable. However, the abortion tragedy is largely a democrat issue since it is high on their political platform. No republican will admit being in favor of abortion on demand. That doesn't make them innocent in this issue as few republicans have challenged health care legislation that contains abortion rights language using the argument that abortion is murder. Most likely it is challenged because government money should not be used for something that is offensive to them. Our job as voters is to first admit that this is NOT a personal choice and decision between a woman and her provider. You can't leave out the ONLY innocent one in this tragedy. And for those who justify this abomination by claiming life of the mother and incest, these are so rare that it might be possible to craft laws that could help victims of these situations. However, the baby is still innocent and would not know how its life began. As far as 'correcting' a deformity, the baby is innocent, and many babies are born with some deformity and have thrived.

As voters we need to remove ANY politicians who are pro-choice. We can start by corresponding with them and making it clear that it is wrong to destroy innocent human life at any stage of development, but they must not be elected or re-elected if they support or fail to denounce publicly abortion on demand. This also includes support for Planned Parenthood, an organization diametrically opposed to parenthood. We elect the politicians who make our laws. We have a responsibility to make sure that they make laws that respect our beliefs. For too long we have rolled over and allowed laws to be written that contradict our beliefs. It is up to us to change that, and it happens at the polls with open eyes, hearts and minds.
