The sailors saw wind from nearly every direction this weekend. On Saturday a light breeze strengthened but only after two MC scows had already left the course. A ROSE BY ANY OTHER NAME....

Some people inherit their boat's name—like the O'Connell's sailboat Peregrine which can be found on the main dock. Peregrine comes from Latin and originally meant 'one from abroad.'

Other names are a different kind of deal. Sadie Newman relates the tale of the naming of Matt's E-scows. Years before Matt was first considering buying an E-scow, he had promised his wife, Sadie, full naming rights as a bargaining chip for adding another boat to his collection. For years she teased that she would name it the most embarrassing name she could think of. When the time came she held her ground and named it the girliest, most ridiculous name she could come up with - Glitter Kitten.

While the Glitter Kitten was a real gem, Matt's inability to stay off of Craigslist's boat for sale section led him to find a nicer, newer E-scow. So once again, naming rights were offered. This time Sadie decided she wanted to name it after a strong female icon. Many were considered, but when Betty White, Betty Boop, Bette Davis, and Queen Elizabeth were all contenders, she ran with the simple moniker—Betty.
