

Paul Lewolt – Guitar and Vocals

Paul Lewolt was born with a passion for music. As a teenager he played in the California Institute of the Arts and California State University Northridge orchestras. After years of experience playing classical music and studying under Joel DiBartolo of the Tonight Show Orchestra, Paul started teaching.

He became an adjunct professor at State University of New York at New Paltz and spent eight years as a music instructor at the National Guitar Summer Workshop. Paul later moved to Nashville where he worked as a touring bassist for several country artists, most notably Steve Wariner. In addition to SPD, Paul plays with local bands the Kristen Black Band, the Bonneville Phantoms and the Mark Adams Band.
