Editor's Note

Starting with this month's newsletter, the contents are being revised (a little).

The club president's message, along with the meeting minutes of the most recent club meeting, will be emailed to club members.

The newsletter will contain articles submitted by club members, such as with this month where Hap shares a trip he and Sara made on the California coast, and club photos posted on the club's Facebook group page.

The remainder of the newsletter will consist of "fixed" content, that doesn't change often, with the exception of the calendar, which is updated monthly.

South on Highway 1 From Half Moon Bay to Morro Bay in a 2018 Mustang Convertible

We had always wanted to travel down Highway 1 on the California coast and finally removed this as one of our bucket list items in September 2018. We rented a 2018 Mustang Convertible with an ECO 4 and automatic for the trip and did manage to drive 90% of the time with the top down. The ECO 4 was pretty peppy for the entire drive and the eight speed paddle shifters made the automatic more interesting after one got used to not reaching for a stick. We flew into Sacramento and drove out to Half Moon Bay south of San Francisco to start our trip. Half Moon Bay was a nice little Victorian resort area which looked like it got a lot of traffic from San Francisco for the State Beaches in the area.

Half Moon Bay Main drag. Nice little town. Saturday Morning.

We then headed south along the coast.

Made a side trip off Highway 1 to Pescadero to visit Norm's Market which had fantastic pastries and loafs of hot Sour dough bread with artichokes and olive oil rolled into the dough. Fantastic brunch and Pastries for later. The Old stage road to Pescadero was tight, and twisty and quite the adventure.

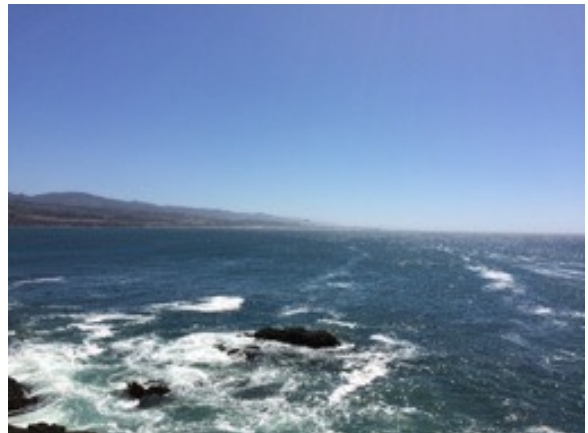

The Old stage Road to Pescadero. Hardly any traffic except for people on bicycles.

Back to the Coast where we drove down to the Pigeon Point Lighthouse area and the rugged coast line it looks over. Big Fog horn at the lighthouse as well.

Hoofbeats

Further down the coast we came upon Wilder Ranch Beach. A windy beach with dozens of sail assisted surf boarders jumping the wakes. Temps in the mid 60s along the coast. Might be 90 inland, but not here. Bring a jacket with a convertible.

Coast line up by Pigeon Point. Lots of rocks off the coast and tough looking surf.

Waddell Beach at Big Basin Redwood State Park.

Next stop was Santa Cruz. Very Touristy, Don't get stuck on the road to the amusement park. Long and frustrating traffic jam. Nice looking beach area but very crowded. We're happy to get out of town and keep heading south to Moss Landing State Beach. Sea Lions at Moss Landing Jetty.

Phil's Fish Market at Moss Landing is a must stop for dinner on the way to Monterey. Great Seafood at great prices in a great atmosphere. Parking tough to find so recommend an early dinner. Great Crab cakes, scallops, and red Snapper fish tacos. Tough to find the restaurant. You need to drive all the way back into the Marina. Address is 7600 Sandholt Road. On to Monterey. Walked the Marina Pier and Cannery Row. Reminded me of one big Mall. Interesting shops though. Got a nice little place to stay called Andril Fireplace Cottages not too far from the beach and the 17 mile Road to Pebble Beach. 17 mile road through Pebble beach has an entrance fee, but was worth it. Nice drive along the coast and the Cypress trees with great views of the coast. Nice looking houses and golf course too.

Bird Rock off Pebble Beach.

Next stop was Carmel for some shopping and lunch. Had lunch at a nice place called Mulligans. Had great roasted oysters the size of halved baseballs. Nice and exotic shops but as you might expect rather pricey. Store owners all very friendly. Good place to see exotic cars as well. Lots of Ferraris and Lambos cruising around. After a busy day we returned for one last trip to Fisherman's wharf and some dinner in Monterey. After we continued south the next day I remembered that Laguna Seca was nearby. Darn I missed seeing it.

On to Big Sur. Beautiful coast line in the morning. Came up on the Bixby bridge and then Big Sur point. Next the waterfall at Pfeiffer Big Sur State Park. Short hike off the road to get to the beach and the falls.

Wash out area from last year is repaired.

Looking straight down a couple hundred feet.

From here it was on to our next stop at San Simeon to see the Hurst Castle.

Hoofbeats

The Hurst Castle in San Simeon. Unbelievable house with spectacular pieces of art dating back to Roman and Egyptian times. Pictures can not capture it.

Hoofbeats

Indoor basement pool at the Hurst Castle. If it looks like gold leaf on the floor and pool tiles, it is.

Final end of our Highway 1 travels – Moro Bay.

Nice little area down by the Marina with some shopping and restaurants. The Dutchman's Seafood house was good and had great Clam Chowder. From here we would strike off east to see Sequoia and Yosemite National Parks, but that is another story.
