PLEASE SUPPORT CLEMENCY/COMMUTATION FOR MARK LANZILOTTI.

About this petition

Mark Lanzilotti is currently an inmate at the Federal Correctional Institution at Loretto, Pa. He has served 14 years of a 30-year sentence as a non-violent first-time offender for conspiracy to manufacture methamphetamine. He was one of 10 co-defendants in the case, all of whom received sentences averaging 5 1/2 years. Some got no time at all.

What makes this so compelling is that Mark's attorney did not inform him that the government had made a 10-year non-cooperation plea offer, which the attorney declined on Mark's behalf without his knowledge. The attorney insisted on going to trial, telling Mark that it was "all or nothing." Mark only learned about the government's offer after he had been found guilty at trial, about a month after his sentencing hearing.

As a result, Mark was initially sentenced to three life sentences without the eligibility for parole. His sentence was later reduced to the current 30 years imprisonment (two decades longer than the original plea offer). This was despite the fact that mark was the only defendant in the case to have voluntarily left the conspiracy years earlier. Mark accepts responsibility for his crime, he always has. Yet, Mark is the only defendant still in prison.

We, friends and family members of Mark Lanzilotti, are banding together to ask President Obama to commute the remainder of Mark's sentence (as per the Clemency Project 2014). We are not asking for special favors, we are simply asking for fairness and justice.

Mark is NOT accepting donations on this site.

Please sign the petition below and visit www.MarkLanz.net for more information. Thank you Comments: Mark has served more time than any first time offender. I have been a police officer for over 40 years and I despise drug dealers. Mark deserves a break after what his lawyer has done to him. I am asking anyone that I know to sign this petition, I am not ashamed to call this man my friend.

Comments: Murder, rape and armed robbery all have average sentences of 7 years or less. Yet a person convicted of a drug related offense, having NO PRIOR RECORD, is sentenced to life? Why? Could it be that federal prosecutors needed a scapegoat to justify their investigation? Could be they wanted to set an example? Whatever the answer, they were wrong! People makes mistakes. We do so everyday. But to arbitrarily ruin a mans life because of one mistake is the real crime! I am not trying to minimize the fact that poor decisions have consequences. Crimes deserve punishment. But if legal system prides itself on the "scales of justice," this is clearly weighted the wrong way. Mark, stay strong brother, I'm praying for you to come home soon.!

Comments: First let me say that I've known Mark for over 20 years and he has been nothing but a gentleman and a gentle soul. Yes, he got mixed up in something he should not have but he has now more than paid his price for it. As an ordinary citizen I certainly would feel safe having Marke released back into society, certainly a lot safer than wondering what could happen to me walking down the street (which I won't do anymore) or walking across a parking lot. He is a non-violent, first-time offender. There are murderers and rapists walking around us every day all the time who haven't paid half the price that Mark has. Mark would certainly be an asset to the community and provide a huge assistance to his mother. His attorney was totally irresponsible and I hope our government would please see clear to make this wrong right after all this time. Thank you.

Comments: My son has lived without his Uncle/ Godfather for most of his life. Mark has served enough time for his mistake. It's time to send him home to his family. In my work with domestic abuse victims, I have painfully watched violent offenders go free after several serious offenses. Let people like Mark go to make room for the real criminals!

Comments: The lawyer who handled it should be put in jail. How do u not ask or re explain to your client what was offered, guess that lawyer didn't give a shit he probable wanted to go to trial so he can bill the family. Bottom line this man should defiantly have a chance to get our ant try to make a difference in the world.

I beleive he has served enough time for a first offense...might be even too much...I am sure he has learned his lesson and he needs to be able to be with his family and friends again. Injustice for sure!

Comments: My an X convict. I served thirty years in a state prison. My time was justified. I don't believe Marks is. The one thing I know is is criminals. I met maybe three guys in prison i knew for a fact did not belong there even though they were guilty of there crime. Mark does "NOT" belong in prison for thirty years! They tried to bully him into turning states evidence. Let me say something about that because the same thing happened to me. They want you to turn stating mostly the facts that they lay forth in a manner they compile. In the end you are not just stating facts, you are lying for the state. They got pissed because so many guys were not convicted and all they are interested in isn't justice but in a conviction rating! It's not about justice, it's about "just the way they want it' to fill there record with convictions. Mark may be guilty for his part, but no way for a thirty year sentence!! i know criminals and he isn't one!!

Comments: As Mark's former employer (he was an outstanding employee), I can honestly say that whatever he admitted to doing was the result of being young and foolish. At this point, after 14 years in prison, he is neither young nor foolish. In fact, he is older and wiser than his years. The manner and ease that he was bamboozled into a trial speaks volumes about how a trusting, naive, young man was sacrificed by his defense attorney who had a hidden agenda. Clearly, he has transformed himself into an informed and educated asset to society.

Comments: I truly feel thus man should not be penalized for such a long sentence considering there are criminals murders and pedophiles that are given less time. He also should be given an oppportunity to repent ans recieve redemption by getting a lesser sentence. In my opinion he doesn't just bear the weight and the remorse of his own actions but cares the burden for the others involved that were given. I pray for his family and for review of his case.

Comments: Im truly appalled for Mark. I myself have been a victim of excessive mandatory minimum guidelines. I've made mistakes, I've admitted them and pled guilty. I was sentenced to more time than people who hurt, raped and murdered others and I took "The deal". I took the deal and even admitted to something I did not do out of fear of losing trial and never having a chance at life again. Today I am 43 and have a new baby boy and struggle to provide because of that one mistake. I will forever work harder, longer, and probably until I die just because I gave so many years to a non-violent act that became a governmental and political brownie point for judges, prosecutors and law enforcement. In turn, I do believe those harsh laws are needed for deterrence as well as punishment for some. But a very select few where many criteria is met. Today it is used as a bargaining threat for many and almost all. I'm sharing my story publicly for the first time because I truly feel sorry for Mark. He doesn't belong in there. Disparity in sentencing truly proves this part of the system is flawed. Who and when will someone finally stand and admit that wrong is wrong. Good luck Mark and bless your family for strength during this nightmare.

Mark's sentencing is completely consistent with the parameters of the plan and is an excellent candidate. I believe Mark is 3 decade sentence for a non-violent crime is exactly what this program was intended to reduce.

Just doesn't sound like our justice system--we aim to be better. This man has been punished more than enough. Give him a break--please.
