

Iowa Utilities Board suspends its review of Rock Island Clean Line

Thursday, November 19, 2015 10:23 AM

The Iowa Utilities Board reports that it has suspended review of the Rock Island Clean Line at the developers' request. The proposed 500-mile electrical transmission line would carry wind-generated energy from northwest Iowa to Illinois and states to the east. The IUB said it has stopped active review of the project and has not scheduled a hearing but will accept comments. The line would go through northern and eastern Iowa
