

Decided to put in a 16x40 shed in this area to ultimately use as a workshop. Right now, it is going to be a small overflow warehouse for our wheel company.

Had to clear it out first...it was a lot of work and took a few weeks. We both got stung by yellow jackets and one of the trees took down our cable line. We had to use a ladder to get it back up. Being at the top of the ladder up against the telephone pole was no fun. Being at the bottom of the ladder avoiding dropped tools from on high was no fun either. Always be looking up 😊

Then came seven dump truck loads of dirt. They told us yesterday it would take five-seven more loads.

This is the first seven loads of dirt flattened out. It will be two-three more weeks before we are done. Next up is more dirt, then the road base, and then the gravel. Once that is done, the next part is the shed. Next update 9/18/2020.
