Workshop Description:

This interactive workshop is one of three six-hour workshops on contract negotiations for local government units and private sector locals. It is designed for officers and activists who want to maximize the union's leverage in contract negotiations by organizing a contract committee, sometimes referred to as a Contract Action Team or CAT. A CAT is a representative group of local/unit activists who help to plan and implement both the contract negotiations and the contract campaign that accompanies the negotiations.

Who Should Attend:

This workshop is open to any local government/private sector CSEA member interested in becoming part of a Contract Action Team or Contract Committee.

Workshop Goals:

That participants come away with a basic understanding of

- What distinguishes collective bargaining from other forms of contract negotiations
- Why it's important for union negotiators to stay mindful of their leverage throughout the negotiations
- How the union's leverage is impacted by the impasse procedures under the Taylor Law or the effect of contract expiration under the NLRB for private sector negotiations
- Why planning and implementing a contract campaign is vital to maximizing the union's leverage.
