It is further understood that it is the Authorized Person’s responsibility to abide by Phoenix Molecular Imaging’s PHI confidentiality and security requirements, including but not limited to the following: (a) passwords are not to be shared, (b) user names and passwords are not to be stored on any computer or remote access device that would permit automatic login if the machine is lost or stolen, (c) the undersigned expressly agrees to limit his/her access to and use of Phoenix Molecular Imaging’s patient report/image database to only the reports and images of his/her patients and only for treatment or health care operations purposes and (d) the undersigned further acknowledges that accessing PHI without authorization, accessing or using PHI for an improper purpose, or allowing access to PHI by unauthorized persons constitutes a HIPAA Privacy Rule violation that could result in the loss of your privilege to access Phoenix Molecular Imaging’s database, possible criminal prosecution, and other sanctions, and such unauthorized conduct may be reportable to law enforcement, professional licensure and disciplinary authorities and the Department of Health and Human Services.

Phoenix Molecular Imaging reserves the right to audit all access to ensure compliance with these requirements. User activity is monitored on a regular basis.
