

Kevin Wilbun

Kevin Hilbun attained his Master's degree from the University of Louisiana at Lafayette, where he studied music composition with Dr. Quincy Hilliard. He completed his undergraduate degree (also in music composition at the University of Louisiana at Lafayette) two years prior. Kevin has explored many different forms of music, such as brass band, blues, Cajun, and Afro-Cuban as well as common-practice era (Medieval-Romantic) music. He has experience in large orchestral and band ensembles, small ensembles such as brass quintet, vocal ensembles, and traditional and popular music. All of these different genres greatly influence the way Kevin writes and thinks about music. He is currently teaching music at the middle school level.
