statement of the allegation(s) and the employee's rights and responsibilities relative to the investigation. Complaints by Persons Under the Influence of Alcohol or Drugs: When a person who is noticeably intoxicated or impaired wishes to make a complaint, he or she shall be encouraged to wait until the earliest opportunity after he or she has regained sobriety to do so. When the receiving officer determines the circumstances require immediate action, preliminary details of a complaint should be taken by the officer, when available, regardless of the person's sobriety. In that event, the Professional Standards designee should re-interview the person after he or she has regained sobriety.
2. Delayed or Untimely Complaints: Complaints of misconduct or malfeasance shall be accepted regardless of when the alleged misconduct or malfeasance is alleged to have occurred. However, the timing of a complaint is one of the circumstances that the Plainfield Police Department may consider in determined whether misconduct or malfeasance can be reliably substantiated and, if so, the nature and extent of discipline to be imposed. Where a delay in reporting alleged misconduct may call into question the veracity of the complainant, or has resulted in the loss or destruction of evidence or the inability to locate witnesses due to the passage of time, the facts and circumstances should be detailed in the report. Although allegations of criminal behavior may be made past the expiration of the applicable statute of limitations and criminal prosecution may no longer be possible, a criminal violator may still be accountable administratively.
3. Complainant Who Fears Retaliation Associated With Filing A Complaint: If a complainant expresses fear of retaliation as a result of filing a complaint they must be assured that those fears will be taken seriously. Complainants should be asked to provide the basis for their concerns, if possible, and the information provided should be noted in the complaint. This will allow the unit, supervisor or Professional Standards designee to be aware of these fears and develop reasonable strategies to assist the complainant in dispelling those fears.

- G. Summary Action: Disciplinary action in the form of an oral reprimand, or counseling documented in writing, was taken by an employee's supervisor or commander for minor violations of department rules, policies or procedures as defined by this agency. Summary actions are the lowest of disciplinary action or remediation.

Will The Police Really Be Impartial When They Investigate Their Own Officers Or Employees?

Yes, the question goes right to the heart of what professional policing is all about. We strive to ensure quality performance from all our officers and employees who represent our department and the Town of Plainfield. We want the public to know that we do not tolerate misconduct. Even perceived tolerance of employee misconduct will lead to a breakdown of public trust which would adversely affect the ability of the police department to function properly.

Does Plainfield Receive Many Complaints About Its Officers?

No. We respond to over 13,000 calls for service each year, handle tens of thousands of telephone calls, and experience thousands of other service related interactions with the public. Less than one half of one percent actually results in complaints regarding employee's conduct and behavior.

The task of policing today's society is demanding and challenging. The Plainfield Police Department will continue to demand the highest standards of service and performance from our employees.

Realizing that it is not possible to enforce the rules of society without incurring some animosity, we will endeavor to protect our employees from unwarranted and false complaints, and protect our citizens from unwarranted and inappropriate mistreatment.

Through this entire process, we will work to maintain your trust and support and develop a real working partnership with our community. Input from citizens helps to ensure that these high standards are constantly being met.

The Plainfield Police Department is sincerely interested in rewarding outstanding performance and taking immediate action in those instances where an employee fails to meet our high standards of conduct.

This pamphlet has been prepared to acquaint you with the operation of the Plainfield Police Department's citizen commendation and complaint processes. The mission of the department is really quite simple: To earn and protect the public trust. In doing so, we have created a method for the public to officially recognize and praise the efforts of our employees, in addition to having a system to bring to our attention complaints and concerns about our performance and behavior.

The men and women of the department understand that our greatest resource and asset is the support and assistance given by the community we serve. Naturally, this relationship, or "partnership" as we think of it, with the citizens of Plainfield is something we must constantly strive to protect. This is a responsibility shared by every member of the department and it is the primary task of the citizen complaint process.

Honorable Service

"We believe the profession we have chosen is honorable; the service we provide is essential. To supply that service in a manner other than honorably is unacceptable."

How Do I Commend Or Compliment The Performance Of a Police Department Employee?

Coming in person to the police station located at 210 Norwich Road, or by calling the Plainfield Police Department's non-emergency number (860) 564-0804, or mailing comments directly to the Chief of Police at 210 Norwich Road, Plainfield, CT 06374.

When a commendation is received verbally, it will be documented and forwarded through the chain of command to the Chief of Police. Letters of commendation from citizens are posted for all department employees to view. The employees of the Plainfield Police Department appreciate the effort and consideration of concerned citizens who take the time to commend our employees.

Here are some of the most common questions and concerns expressed by the public about the citizen's complaint process.

How Do I Make A Complaint About The Performance Or Behavior Of a Police Department Employee?

Complaints will be accepted from any source and may be made anonymously, in person, or by telephone. While the department does accept anonymous complaints, an investigation generally cannot proceed based solely on anonymous uncorroborated information, unless the allegation can be confirmed by an independent source. Preferably, complaints should be made in person by the individual directly making the allegation.

The department accepts complaints made against police officers, civilian employees, part-time and volunteer workers, and other agents of the department. A citizen can initially speak to any supervisor, or the Office of Professional Standards, about an allegation or the complaint process, but the citizen will be referred to the immediate supervisor or the Professional Standards Officer, depending upon the seriousness of the allegation. An appointment will be made for you, and you are free to bring with you anyone of your choosing.

When making a complaint, simply relate the facts as you know them. Don't attempt to add to or embellish your complaint.

What Happens When I Make A Complaint?

If the complaint is for a serious matter, such as unnecessary or excessive use of force, false arrest or violation of a specific criminal statute, the Professional Standards Officer will investigate the complaint.

Less serious matters, such as rudeness, discourtesy, and minor infractions of the rules, regulations, policies or procedures will be investigated by the employee's immediate supervisor. Investigators then forward the findings to the Chief of Police, who may hold an administrative hearing on the matter. Based on the results, the complaint can either be sustained or not sustained. If sustained, the Chief of Police will determine type of sanction to be imposed upon the employee. Sanctions may include retraining, counseling, reprimand, suspension without pay, transfer, reassignment, demotion, and/or dismissal.

Is Something Done On All Complaints?

Yes. All complaints are initially documented on a Citizen Complaint Form and thoroughly examined and investigated consistent with Departmental and Town policy, labor agreements, and State law.

What Does The Professional Standards Office Do?

Members of the Professional Standards Unit report directly to the Chief of Police and have the responsibility of coordinating the investigations of serious allegations of misconduct; including:

- Allegations of unnecessary force used by an employee in the performance of duty.
- Any allegation of criminal conduct by a member of the department.
- Allegations of false arrest.
- Allegations of serious misconduct or misbehavior.

What Happens After An Investigation Is Completed?

After your complaint has been investigated, the investigating officer will notify you of the results. If you still disagree with the specific findings, you may request a meeting with the Chief of Police. You may bring an advocate with you, however, this is an informal meeting and excessive numbers of persons tend to diminish effective communications.

You should also know that making a complaint in no way limits your ability or right to pursue any other complaint forums if you feel that you have been wronged. Every complaint that involves a possible violation of a law is automatically reviewed for possible referral to the States Attorney's Office.

What Rights Do Police Officers And Other Employees Have When A Complaint Is Made Against Them?

Police employees are protected under their respective labor agreements, any applicable state and Federal statutes, and Department and Town policy. These provisions provide that employees shall not be subjected to harassment, intimidation, and threats from supervisors, or unreasonable periods of interrogation. They also have a right to counsel or union representation during the investigation.

Am I At Risk When I Make A Complaint Against A Police Employee?

Absolutely not! You will be treated courteously and need not fear any type of intimidation from any member of the department. However, if you deliberately make a false complaint against an officer, you could be prosecuted criminally and/or be held civilly liable.
