A - While in Holland my father suffered a mild heart attack. The doctor there gave him some tablets to put under his tongue when he felt a pain coming on. I never heard him mention having any more problems with his heart after coming back to Cleburne.

Ralph and I enjoyed going ~~a short~~ to a sorghum field (small variety of sugar cane used for cow feed and making sorghum syrup), and chewing the sweet soap from the cane stalks. One day Ralph decided to go alone. Late in the afternoon we missed him and searched all over the place for him. I happen to think of the Sorghum patch. We went there and found him sound asleep with a stick of sorghum in his mouth.

I also remember the nights when Ruby and Pauline were born. My father sent us all to our rooms and told not to come out all night. I wasn't old enough to know what was about to happen. I heard my father and another talking for a long time (it was the doctor). Some time during the night I a baby ~~was~~ crying. I found out the next morning I had a new baby sister. It happened about the same way when Pauline was born about two years later.
