

CAREY

I had just been diagnosed with Type 2 Diabetes in March 2014 with an A1C at over 11, I was not very well at all – after the initial shock and a prescription for two different medications I started this life long journey of first getting well again and then trying to avoid all of the eventual health problems related to being Diabetic. There were many I was reminded over and over again so I had to do something.

We travelled to Vegas in May 2014 for our regular visit and while shopping at the Outlet Mall we ran into the kiosk selling Ion Effect bracelets – the information they displayed made reference to helping with Diabetes and since I normally wear a bracelet anyway I purchased my first bracelet thinking “what could it hurt”.

Two years later, wearing a single power Ion Effect Bracelet, eating healthier, and a little bit of exercise – my A1C was stable at 6.3 (which is still considered pre-diabetic). I am off one medication completely and taking only half the amount of the second. I am also sleeping better and have more energy.

In May 2016 – I started wearing a Double Power Men’s Bracelet and am extremely pleased to report that my A1C after only wearing the double power version for 6 months has dropped to 5.3 which is considered normal and non-diabetic!!!! My arthritic pains in knee and fingers have disappeared along with heartburn. We also experience sleep like never before – sleeping so soundly, waking with huge energy, and feeling better than ever!!!!

In October 2014 - only six months after Carey purchased his first bracelet - our next trip to Vegas would have me purchasing my first bracelet. I too would find that I slept better, had less frequent migraine headaches. I had some issues with pins in my bracelet and set it aside in August of 2015 with the intention of taking advantage of Ion Effects “Lifetime Warranty”. I intended to return it to Vegas for replacement in October.

In September I had some serious blood pressure issues resulting in high enough pressure to be concerned about a stroke. My doctor prescribed 8mg of Coversyl – a medication that brought my blood pressure under control. Then on October I returned to Vegas, had my bracelet replaced, and soon after noticed my blood pressure too low – requiring a drop in medication to 4 mg. This trend continued to where I am now at 2 mg and seriously considering going off the medication entirely. I credit this to the minerals in the Ion Effect bracelet

After both of us experienced good results from the Ion Effect bracelet we decided to bring this product home to the people of Canada.

Since doing so - we have hundreds of satisfied customers who also experience many health benefits too numerous to mention, reduction/elimination of pain, better sleep, and amazing energy levels.
