Coatings – The Good, The Bad and the Ugly
Burt Olhiser, Principal/Vantage Point Consulting

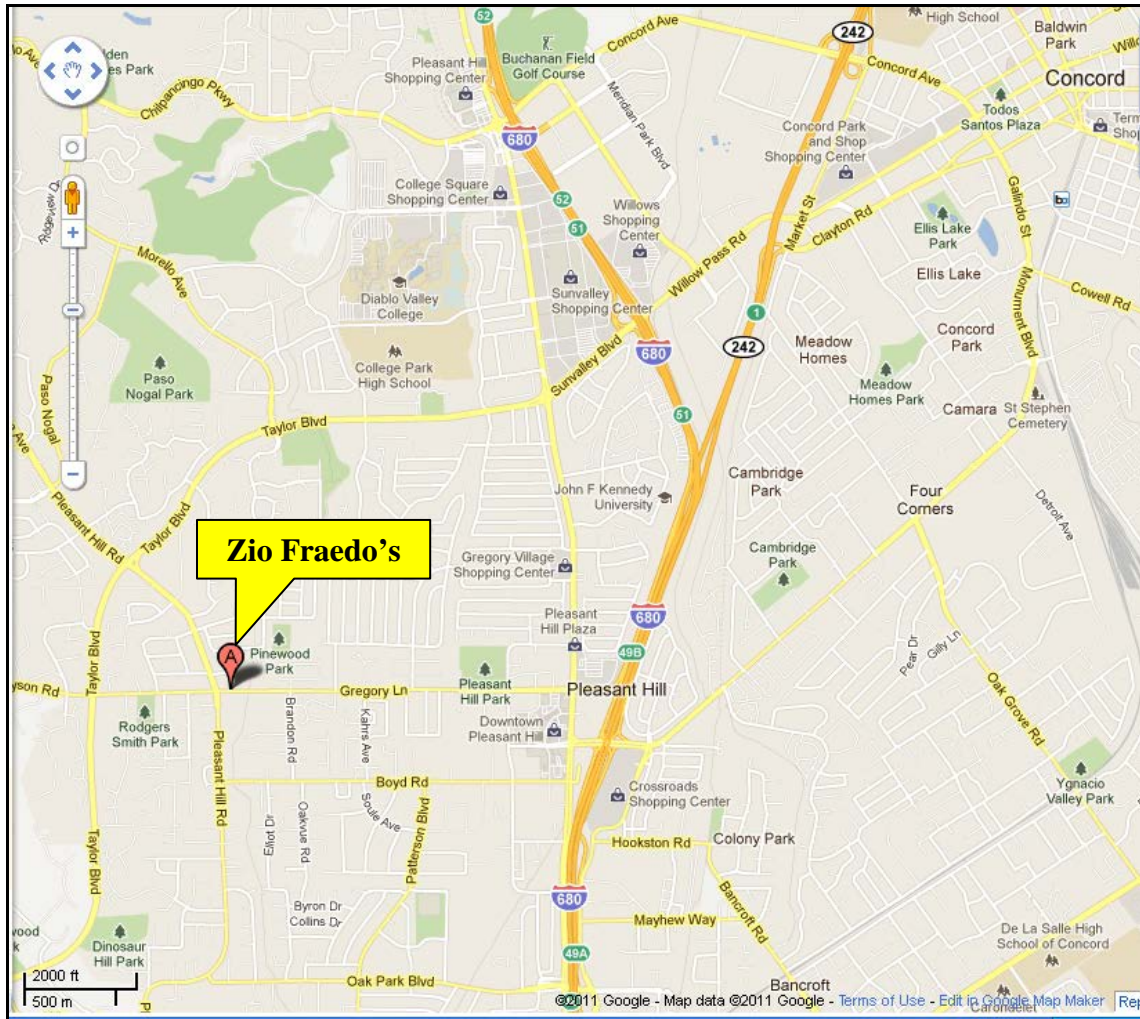

This Presentation will address Project Specification items that are often overlooked and what the consequences of doing so are. These will be contrasted with proper specifications that are "Concise, Clear, Complete and Correct"

Speaker Bio:

Burt Olhiser founded Vantage Point Consulting (VP) in 1991 after a 15-year stint as a successful Northern California painting contractor. He initially provided safety, training and business consulting services to his peers. In 1992 he returned to school at UC Davis where he became an instructor for their EPA Western Regional Lead Training Center until that programs closure. He then began teaching in the UC Berkeley's Center for Occupational & Environmental Health program until that programs close in 2015. From 1994 to 2000 Burt served as Environmental Health & Safety Director and Quality Control Manager for one of California's largest Industrial Painting Contractors.

Burt is a certified NACE Level III peer reviewed coatings inspector, he is licensed by the State of California as a CAC (Certified Asbestos Consultant) as well as a Lead Related Construction Professional, Risk Assessor/Inspector, Project Monitor and Project Designer
