Sponsors Hour What a Blessing!

We all know that the purpose of the Emmaus walk is to build leaders in the church. A sponsor has this in mind when he or she has a candidate. During Sponsors Hour when we light the candle and pray over the cross the sponsor tells the community what they hope their pilgrim receives from the walk. As a united group we pray for this request. Here is where the blessing happens! When I sit at closing and listen to the new community members sharing what the walk has meant – I hear those prayers answered in some way!

Sponsors Hour is a period of great opportunity and importance. It's not a time for us to talk about what it meant to us, but a time to lift up our pilgrims. This is why we, the Central Alabama Emmaus Community Board of Directors, ask that if you sponsor someone you need to stay at Sponsors Hour until it is completed. If you can not fulfill this requirement please find someone who can co-sponsor and remain for the total time to pray for you the pilgrim.

God Bless you and see you at Walk #68 and #69

Blue Lake Walk to Emmaus #45, Table of Peter

In Emmaus we say that the walk is designed to develop leadership in the local church. After watching many people come through the Walk to Emmaus I am convinced that it accomplishes what it has set out to accomplish; i.e., strengthen leaders. There are all kinds of secular books that attempt to define what leadership is. There are some that are really good. However the best understanding of leadership comes from our own Christian tradition and what Jesus teaches about leadership.

Leaders are servants first of all. The only gospel passage in which Jesus summed up his ministry in a single sentence defined leadership in terms of service: "The son of man did not come to be served, but to serve" (Luke 28:28). Jesus did not define his ministry in terms of ruling over others, but serving others. "This is how one should regard us," Paul writes in 1 Corinthians 4:1, "as servants of Christ and as stewards of the mystery of God." The Book of Revelation begins "This is the revelation given by God to Jesus Christ. It was given to him so that he might show his servants what must shortly happen. He made it known by sending his angel to his servant John ..."

The word used over and over again for "servant" is hupertes, which originally meant an "underrower," someone who worked in the galleys, or the lower deck of a ship's crew. It eventually came to mean a servant or steward. Jesus' "upside-down thinking" defined leadership first in terms of followership. The best definition of a Christian leader is as a follower or a servant. A Christian leader is one who follows Christ, and in the name of Christ, serves the needs of the world.

Christian leaders are followers: people who resign their self-appointed positions as captains of the ship and who reside as part of the ship's crew. Servants don't sit at captains' tables; servants sit where a Savior can be found in straw, or are with Christ on a cross.

Paul reminds us that the most important thing about servants is that they do what they are told. In other words, it is not originality, not success, not influence, but "Trust-and-Obey" faithfulness that defines our calling. A server is a person whose function is not determined by his or her own will. Servant leaders can recite the words of Mary (Luke 1:38) and mean them: "Let it be to me according to your word." Servers are wholly at the disposal of those they serve.

In order to be an effective leader we must first be a servant. Isn't one of the major experiences of Emmaus to be a servant, so we can in turn become a more effective leader on behalf of Jesus. The next time you are called upon to serve on a Emmaus team remember in your servanthood God is preparing you to become a leader.

Walk #69

Scripture Verse

So then, just as you received Christ Jesus as Lord, continue to live in Him, rooted and built up in Him, strengthened in the faith as you were taught, and overflowing with thankfulness.

Colossians 2:6-7

THE SPIRIT OF THE WALK TO EMMAUS

LOVE

The weekend community should be characterized by an atmosphere of hospitality and acceptance. The Pilgrims should feel that the walk is an open and opportune space in which they can respond freely and honestly to the gospel of grace in the presence of people who care, a time in which they can rediscover themselves in relationship with God. The weekend community should not become an arena for moral or doctrinal correction, which some Pilgrims fear it will be. Rather, it should be an environment of unconditional love in which persons can gradually lower their defenses and allow God to touch their lives with grace. The team motto for Kairos (the prison expression of Cursillo) is equally suited to Emmaus: "Love, Love; Listen, Listen."

However, this love draws attention to God- not to team members. An ancient image depicts the spiritual life as a wagon wheel with spokes connecting at the center. The center represents God in Jesus Christ, and the wheel rim represents people. As we turn and are drawn to the center, we are, at the same time, drawn closer to one another. But, when we attempt to move closer to one another on our own, along the rim of human need and natural inclination, we do not necessarily move closer to God. Nor do we necessarily move closer to lasting spiritual relationships with one another. The aim of the Walk to Emmaus is to turn people's attention toward God, so they may be drawn closer to God and, in the process, drawn together as spiritual friends into a Christian community of the Holy Spirit's making.

The wagon wheel image of the spiritual life can be a reminder to the team members that their behavior should call attention to God and not to themselves. The image also reminds the team that God is not present as a result of human togetherness or a feeling of human closeness. In other words, team members should not feel a need to do things that will accelerate feelings of intimacy or push Pilgrims to share beyond their levels of willingness, much less feign overflowing affection for them. God will draw the Pilgrims together as their attention is turned to God's welcoming love and as their hearts overflow with the gift of that love in the company of one another. On the Walk, Pilgrims will experience how the grace of God in Jesus Christ draws people together into a new community of the Holy Spirit's own creation, a community centered in the freedom of God's love rather in the egoism and neediness intrinsic to human love.

Significance

Significance is much more difficult to measure than success. How do you judge the impact of a person's life? Do you base it on the quality of one life touched or on the quantity of lives influenced? And at what time do you try to make the measurement? By the time the person is 40, 65, or 90? Does history make the judgement - at 10, 100, or 1,000 years after a person is gone? Or, will we know the answer only in heaven?

No individual can measure his or her own impact. So, what is one to do? Keep growing. Do something every day to make yourself better able to give. Whatever talents, skills, and resources you have, improve them to the point that people benefit from the overflow of your life. Then keep giving. And let God worry about keeping score.

John C. Maxwell
