

Adams County Fair After Action

On August 3 – 5, the Chapter had its Helicopter War Museum on display for the final three days of the 5-day Colorado Adams County Fair. Although there were thousands of fair attendees each day attracted by the carnival atmosphere, visitor counts to the Museum were only about 300 to 400 per day. The bright side was that nearly all who did visit had a very positive and more engaging experience than we normally encounter. Most ask lots of questions and stayed around for prolonged answers and more questions. One fellow was about to enter the Army WOC flight training program and we had as many questions for him as he did for us. All in all, three days of quality presentation rather than quantity.
