

Save with Contractor-Performed Home Energy Evaluation and Assessment Programs

Energy-Saving Programs Customized Just for You

Dominion Energy offers a variety of home-energy audit and assessment programs to customers in Virginia and North Carolina. The programs allow customers to work with participating contractors to identify areas where they can save energy in their home and take advantage of financial incentives* to help offset the cost of improvements.

How it Works

A participating contractor will audit or assess your home for energy-saving opportunities and install simple measures like LED bulbs and faucet aerators that reduce energy usage. You then get a personalized report with the contractor's recommendations for ways to lower your energy use even more. Lighting, water usage, heating and cooling systems, and insulation are the most common areas for energy-saving improvements.

Home Energy Evaluation Program

Two Options to Fit Your Needs

Energy Check-Up – Discover where your home is costing you money and comfort with a quick, low-cost walk-through assessment performed by a pre-qualified contractor. Contractors will install simple measures, while identifying other energy-saving opportunities in a personalized report with cost-effective options to help reduce energy usage. You may qualify for financial incentives to help offset the cost of improvements.

Energy Audit – For customers ready to take on major energy-saving upgrades, this in-depth home energy audit identifies energy-saving improvements and qualifying rebates. Potential upgrades include adding insulation to your home's attic, wall, basement wall and crawl space, heat pump upgrades and tune-ups, and more.

Manufactured Housing Program

Customers who reside in manufactured or mobile homes can schedule an in-home energy audit or assessment of their own. Customers will receive a personalized report containing cost-effective options and easy-to-follow recommendations in addition to having simple measures installed. Incentives may be available to help customers offset the cost of installation of the recommended improvements.
