

What I like about Canada

I really love Canada, because it has many great things to do like hiking and swimming. It is also very scenic.

Canadians are very friendly. We help people from all around the world, such as those people who have been through war or who are coming from areas where there are human rights abuses. Canada is a peaceful country and Canadians strive to include all people. Most countries like Canada because of this.

We also have great laws for example, you can't purchase guns unless they are for hunting and you don't have a criminal record. We also have great provinces like Saskatchewan, which has lots of amazing farmland that provides tons of wheat and vegetables for all of Canada. There is also Quebec, which has many great hiking spots and is where most of the maple syrup comes from. Canada has many more great provinces, which makes it unique. That is why it's such a great place to live in.
