

The Last Full Day

Today is the last full day of the Donald Trump Presidency. We should take a moment to take stock of what this most controversial but extraordinary man has done for America. He protected us from enemies both foreign and domestic. He modernized our military. He set the wheels in motion to build the most prosperous peacetime economy in our history and spearheaded a massive tax cut for most Americans. He helped pave the way for America's energy independence. He succeeded in getting three strict Constitutionalist justices placed on the Supreme Court and over 200 judges approved for Federal Courts. He made good on his promise to get vaccines developed to protect us from the deadly Coronavirus, but most of all he helped us restore confidence in ourselves and pride in our country. Whatever you may think of him, personally, these facts are indisputable. Thank you, Mr. President.
