Saturday Group Discussions

The afternoon discussions are described in far greater detail on the Honors website. Please visit <http://www.honors.wayne.edu/monteith>.

My Detroit: The Remembered Past. Share your reminiscences of the Detroit you knew and loved, and explore the present life of the city and hopes for its future.

What Was The Monteith Experiment and How Was I Part of It? How do you remember your Monteith experience and how did it contribute to shaping your life and career?

Contributions to the Arts and Humanities. Focusing on music, poetry, writing, performance, visual arts, and architecture.

Coming of Age: The Future. The first Monteith graduates (1963) have now qualified for Medicare. How are you preparing for the upcoming "next chapter" of your life? Share plans and exchange ideas.

Science: Your Own Sequence. Here's an opportunity to explore how the two-year Natural Science sequence at Monteith may have informed your career and/or life interests.

War, Loss, and Despair. Served in Vietnam, Iraq, Kuwait or some other theater of war? Here's an opportunity to exchange experiences, find support from the cohort of your college years, and form new connections.

Life Abroad. Share your story of life in another country and culture, such as the Peace Corps, Foreign Service, or international business stint. Compare notes with kindred spirits.

Anarchists, Outsiders. A session for those who often feel like outsiders (even as Monteith students), and have a strong anarchistic streak. This session will not be facilitated. Participants will have to create their own order (or chaos).

Epiphanies and Quests. Share those singular moments in life when a sudden insight or vision impelled or impels you to make a dramatic change in how you live your life.

Help Save Detroit. Deepen your understanding of life in Detroit today and offer your ideas on how the city might recover from its downward spiral.
