Winnsboro, TX Elections Results

[\[Election Results\]](#) City of Winnsboro posts “unofficial” results of elections shortly after midnight, on May 8, 2022, as shown on the next page.

Winning seats for City of Winnsboro aldermen (city council) are incumbent and Mayor Pro Tem Randy Parrish, incumbent Jim Hollowell, and newcomer C.J. Thatcher.

Also approved in the May 7 election were two (2) of eight (8) proposed bond items: One is for the city’s Animal Shelter, and the second is for Transportation (Roads).

Winning seats for the Winnsboro ISD Board of Trustees are incumbent Brandon Green and newcomer Billy Saucier.

How This Works

Tabulations compiled include early voting and regular voting on Saturday, from election officials in Wood and Franklin counties. The city is graphically located in two counties.

The results become “official” after the next call city council meeting and Winnsboro ISD Board of trustees meeting, respectively. Typically, the staff presents to council the votes and the council acts on “canvassing the votes.”

Then after that procedure, the new members are sworn in, whither at that meeting or the next meeting, either at the beginning or end of that meeting.

“Canvassing the vote” means an election official “e canvass means aggregating or confirming every valid ballot cast and counted—absentee, early voting, Election Day, provisional, challenged, and uniformed and overseas citizens.” Per eac.gov.

Winners for alderman (council member seats) are Randy Parrish, CJ Thatcher, and Jim Hollowell. Bond propositions approved include the Animal Shelter and Transportation (Roads).

The City of Winnsboro social media Facebook site posted after midnight on 5/8/2022 a chart picture of the results of the election on May 7, 2022.

It is not known if either entity is reporting only the vote from the polls on Saturday, May 7, and if those numbers also include information from election officials for early voting.

Information by county (Wood, Franklin and Hopkins) is slated for posting as that information becomes available.
