

Volunteer Program at Hickory Aviation Museum

Our Hickory Aviation Museum contains a treasure of information for the young and old; for those who seek knowledge about flying, for those who desire to preserve the history of our military aircraft, for those who wish to honor our veterans and aviation heroes, and for those who want to enjoy the past and learn about the future. The museum vision statement is "Preserve, Honor, and Educate."

In the past, our Hickory Aviation Museum has relied on a host of volunteer veterans of World War II era to our current conflicts, as well as the families of these veterans. We need to continue the magnificent work of so many and pass along opportunities to the next generation to carry forth with the education of our youth. Our goal is to have the museum open to the public six days a week, and additional volunteers are necessary to make that a reality. There are no paid employees at the museum, and thus the Sabre Society and dedicated volunteers have developed, maintained, and proudly invited the public through the doors of history at no cost.

We need volunteers in all capacities, to meet and greet the public, restore and repair aircraft, work on social media, and conduct tours for school children and guests through the museum. No aviation experience is necessary. If you are interested in aviation or want to learn about aviation, we can use you. Any hours would be greatly appreciated and we guarantee you will come away with a sense of gratification, fun, and pride.

The Hickory Aviation Museum is located at the Hickory Regional Airport:

3101 9th Avenue Drive NW, Hickory, NC 28601 in the Phil Yount Terminal Building on the left side as you drive in.
