FEATHERS IN THE WIND

A dear friend of mine got a tattoo when she was past the age of 70! I thought that she was silly until I saw her arm. The tattoo reads "know that I am." Those of you who remember the Bible verse can fill in the rest.

I have grown used to tattoos and even like some. I guess I will remain set in my ways, although I have noticed that many old ladies are ahead of us in accepting new things.

I had two "tantes" (Tante Lina Rettig of Middle and her sister, Tante Mae Meyer) who were surrogate mothers to my mother after her own mother died when she was an infant. Both aunts were very accepting of new things. I loved them so much because they were loving to so many people. Mae called Tante Lina every morning to "check in."

Tante Mae comforted me every time that I would say that I would never find a good man for a husband. She would say, "every pot has a lid." She was right! I found a good husband. There is a picture of the two aunts together at our wedding, wiping away tears of happiness.

Parade Winners and Visitor Perspectives on Maifest

Deb Kennedy, volunteer parade coordinator, released the 2025 parade winners and if you were on Amana's main street you well understand how tough a job being a parade judge might be as this was a long parade with lots and lots of neat entries.

Best use of theme: Amana Meat Shop and Smokehouse. Most humorous: Ackerman Winery. Judge's choice: Millstream Brewing Co.

Talking with visitors who were watching the entertainment, dining and enjoying their day in Amana, we heard lots of positive comments and a couple of constructive criticisms to pass on.

A couple with two elementary-school age kids from Moline planned their weekend around two fests. They were attending Maifest on Saturday then heading to Pella on Sunday, the mom told us, "I'm from Cedar Rapids and have always enjoyed this festival as it's low-key and the dancers are so unique. I used to come every year with my parents and we would have a big lunch at one of the inns. . . I enjoy the fact that there are free things to do and you can just wander. . . the geo-cracking was my kids' favorite! But they also loved the wagon ride."

One 50-something couple from Benton County made their first after parade stop the Ronneburg where they had a good lunch and then headed east to Millstream Brewing Co. later in the day, "We come for the people watching and to just sit and listen to the music. We are big, big Barefoot Becky fans! And we have to have lunch right here, that's our thing."

"I get a little freaked out at the parking, but it's to be expected, I guess," said one fest guest from Iowa City. "We are used to walking . . . I think they had more going on last year? May be I'm wrong. . . We did go to the museum this year which we haven't done in years and that was nice. It's a nice museum."

I really hadn't been it since I was a kid."

"I wish there had been more outdoor seating in front of the big barn," said one woman who has been to the past Maifests. She brought her neighbor with her this year. "It would have been good to sit in the sun and eat our food. It got chilly in the barn. We loved the craft area. And the brewery is always fun. . . The weather turned out to be really perfect cause some years it's hot."

FAITH & HOPE OF OUR FATHERS

*New Testament Bible Reading Marathon: We did it! We read all of the New Testament of the Holy Bible aloud & outside in 2-1/2 daylit days, & a small portion was read in German! While there was a lot of strong wind, God spared us of the predicted storms. A big thank you to all who participated & to our very gracious host location! (And yes, we had child through senior adults join us!) Those who founded the Amana Colonies 170 years ago were led to come here by their faith & hope in God & His Holy Word. All of us can read the Bible every day & discover the hope & new life God offers us!
