ABOUT US

At Smartegies, we are a team of seasoned professionals consisting of writers, graphic designers, photographers, and strategists. We work with large corporations, small businesses, public entities and non-profit agencies to develop and implement marketing and advertising campaigns, communications and public outreach programs, and digital and social media plans. We have extensive experience helping companies position themselves competitively during a public procurement process by producing winning RFQ/P documents and highly effective presentations for interviews and public presentations. We have also worked directly with public and private end-user groups to manage public relations, internal and external communications and a wide-array of events.
