

Structures & Strategies FOR PRESENTING AND FACILITATING

a workshop opportunity for any educator who leads and facilitates groups

The goal of Structures and Strategies for Presenting and Facilitating is to provide an introduction to skills, concepts, protocols, and capabilities necessary to promote and sustain group collaboration.

Participants will develop:

- An increased capacity to plan and implement planning procedures, protocols, and structures to develop and sustain high functioning groups
- An expanded repertoire of practical facilitation, presentation, and coaching tools
- Strategies for keeping group members on track, on topic, energized, and resourceful
- Skills to move groups beyond consensus to common focus and deep levels of thinking and learning

Trainer - Steve Seward

Email: steve@LetsGoodTalk.com Phone: 616-443-2331

Collective efficacy and vulnerability are essential components of collaborative learning. Steve is a highly motivated, experienced, and energetic national consultant, facilitator, presenter, and coach. He has spent over 25 years in education as an early elementary teacher, instructional coach, Assistant Superintendent of Teaching and Learning, college/university professor, and national consultant focused on adult learning, best practice instructional technique, group facilitation, leadership development, and the promotion of self-directedness to ensure success for all. Don't miss the opportunity to explore unique content and realistic strategies that will boost team collaboration, craftsmanship, confidence, interdependence, excitement, and achievement!