A NEW Musical Review celebrating
American Music and it's roots.

American music has it's root's in so many cultures, and regions of this country. But American Music really began to develop with the invention of the Radio in the Early 1900's. Suddenly, music that was only heard in certain parts of the country was being broadcast across the nation and influencing an entire generation of writers.

Join us as we celebrate the music makers that influenced a nation.
