THE GASPÉ PROJECT

PROFILE

The band The Gaspé Project, has recently recorded its first EP in Carleton (Québec, Canada) at Studio Tracadièche.

The EP features seven original tracks:

- » Daytona 500 (a tribute to the legendary racetrack)
- » I've Been A Bad Boy (on infidelity)
- » Paper Mill : Gaspésia (on those who gave their blood and tears for that factory)
- » You've Got Me Wrong (on misunderstanding)
- » Legends And Chains (because tenderness is stronger than love)
- » You Don't Care (a tribute to a topless dancer)
- » Remember Jeanne Mance Street (a love story)

In the spirit of the North American Folk tradition of «road songs», these melodies took shape from a wealth of life experiences across the continent, from a room in a New York, to road trips in Kansas, Oregon, and Gaspésie. The Gaspé Project is associated to two firms based on the Gaspé Coast, GASPA (videography and photography) and 40 Degrés (design).

As a whole, the group, that includes five experienced musicians, is first and foremost a musical adventure in the Folk-Rock tradition (with a touch of blues) featuring original songs written and composed by the band leader, Thierry Haroun. It's homegrown music that touches on social themes as much as it does matters of the heart. The Gaspé Project musical adventure includes 19 guitar songs and four written for piano that sing of the furious desire for liberty (You Run Like a Revolution), tenderness, tumultuous relationships, infidelity, the fight for civil rights of Blacks in Alabama in the 50's (There's Trouble Comin'), Bobby Sands' struggle in Northern Ireland (66 Days of Hunger), a tribute to truckers (Song for Jim), to topless dancers (You Don't Care), to bikers (Gasoline), to changes (You're Not The Same) and so forth. It's also about solitude (I Didn't Want To Tell), love and hate, it's about life.
