Quote & History Tidbit

Leonard Ravenhill

“A popular evangelist reaches your emotions. A true prophet reaches your conscience.”

Born: 1907 Yorkshire, England

Leonard Ravenhill was one of the most well known British outdoor evangelists of the 20th century who was known for not watering down the word of God. The emphasis of his preaching was addressing the disparities between the Church in his time and calling for going back to the principles of biblical revival during the New Testament Church. A gift of his was to create spontaneous maxims as he spoke with memorable observations about God, the church and the world. He constantly stated that “one should be a Christian all the time and everywhere.” In the 1980’s, Leonard moved to a home near Lindale, Texas, USA, with his family. He later taught classes at Last Days Ministries and was a mentor to the late Keith Green. A friend of Leonard’s was A.W. Tozer who said “To such men as Leonard the church owes a debt too heavy to pay.”
