

Do you love working with children and families?

Are you looking for a great opportunity to work with a small but growing agency that offers a great team and flexible hours?

Then this is the job for you!

Family Pride of Northeast Ohio is a growing counseling agency that provides a variety of counseling and support services to children, youth and families throughout northeast Ohio. Our goal is meet families where they need it the most to help them be healthy, stay together, and allow each family member to find their place in the family and community. To do this, we offer services in clients' homes, school, work, throughout the community, and at our office locations in Chardon, Middlefield, and Ashtabula.

We are currently looking for part-time or full-time fabulous, positive-thinking clinical therapists to work with children and families throughout our service area.

Clinical Therapist Position Information

Therapists work with clients and their families to develop effective treatment plans based upon client needs, strengths and supports. With support from their clinical supervisor and team, clinical therapists will provide evidence-based clinical interventions, and collaborate with treatment team members and pertinent community representatives to build resiliency and reduce barriers to personal success. Individuals will experience a variety of counseling opportunities including individual, couples, family, and groups with individuals of all ages.
