“NAI Long Island’s Nancy Scoca, ACoM[®] is Named CAI’s Property Manager of the Year”

Melville, New York. (January 2011)

Nancy Scoca, ACoM[®], a Senior Property Manager at NAI Long Island, was honored as the Property Manager of the Year by the Long Island Chapter of CAI at the organization’s annual Trade Show and Educational Program.

Nancy has been a property manager for seventeen years which has included time spent with Douglas Elliman and Insignia. For the past seven years Nancy has been with NAI Long Island where she manages both residential communities and commercial properties, most notably The Lakes at East Setauket, a 314 home condo/HOA and the Huntington Square Mall.

Nancy’s dedication to property management revolves around her ability to listen to her clients’ requirements, needs and her ability to deliver prompt and timely service. Her professional approach to property management is simple: service, service and more service.

Community Association Institute (CAI) is an organization that provides education and resources to volunteer homeowner leaders and professionals who govern and manage community associations, condominiums and cooperatives. Their mission is to make communities preferred places to call home.
