"Elvis" Helps Deaf Kids Hear In The Tri-Cities "HEARING: From the King" coming to Kingsport

Waiting to Hear is teaming up with the Lamplight Theatre and award winning Elvis Presley tribute artist Stephen Freeman to bring the gift of hearing to deaf children in our region. On Saturday June 13, 2015 at 7:00PM Waiting to Hear kicks off their inaugural Music to Our Ears concert with HEARING From the King: a Tribute to Elvis Presley. The show is designed to raise awareness about cochlear implants and raise money for programs that support hearing and spoken language outcomes for deaf and hard of hearing children in our area. The event stars Stephen Freeman and his Echoes of a Legend Show Band. Stephen was named the Country Music Association's 2011 Tribute Artist of the Year, and was recently named one of the top 10 Elvis Tribute Artists in the world. Local artist Greg Cornett and His All Star Band will open the show. Jessica Larkin, Morning anchor of ABC 19 WKPT TV will serve as emcee. Tickets can be purchased online at www.WaitingToHear.org waitingtohear.org reserved seats are $20 and there are a limited number of VIP seats available for $30. The event is sponsored by Advanced Bionics, Cochlear Americas, and Advanced Call Center Technologies. Media advertising partners include Bristol Herald Courier, Kingsport Times-News, Johnson City Press, and the Loafer.

About Waiting To Hear: Waiting to Hear is a 501(c)3 nonprofit based in the Tri Cities. Their Executive Officer and Founder, Shannon Ball explained the need for more awareness by saying "Currently 95% of newly diagnosed deaf individuals do not receive ANY information on cochlear implants. We're working hard to change that. All too often children are simply being labeled 'deaf'. We prefer to think they are only...waiting to hear." Ball formed the organization in 2013 after his daughter lost her hearing and received two cochlear implants.
