

BREE JACKSON - MODERN & BALLET INSTRUCTOR (RECREATIONAL & COMPETITION)

Bree Jackson has been dancing for 15 years. Her training expands from ballet, pointe and modern to jazz, musical theater, and hip hop. Her early training at studios such as Spotlight studio of Dance and B.Funk instilled a love of performance and styles including jazz and contemporary. She began my classical training in high school where she did ballet and modern five days a week at Baltimore School for the Arts. She is currently working towards her BFA in dance with a concentration of choreography and performance at Towson University. Post-graduation, she plans on dancing in the concert and commercial world because she loves both! One of her greatest joys is passing on the knowledge of dance she has gained onto her students, so she looks forward to teaching at N'Ferno!
