

Goal

Global Medical Libraries (GML) exists to shrink the educational gap in all areas of the health sciences in developing countries. Its goal is to improve global healthcare through education.

Mission

GML is a California based initiative focused on improving the standard of healthcare in developing countries by providing donated health sciences educational resources, which contribute to advancing the quality of pre-service education.

Objective

GML will significantly enhance the initial and continuing education of healthcare professionals in communities crippled by the lack of materials, with which to teach, learn and provide healthcare of all kind, through donated health sciences education resources.
