

This statement describes the types of personal information Carlton & Alberola, A Partnership of Law Corporations collects through its website (Site), and how we use, share and protect that information. This statement does not govern the collection of information through any website, or any other means, other than through the Site.

Personal Information We Collect and How We Use It

We do not collect personal information through the Site unless you voluntarily provide such information to us. Personal information such as name, address, phone number and email address is collected through the Site from visitors who submit a contact or request form on the Site. We use that personal information to respond to your inquiries, or for any other purposes for which you provide such information.

Tracking and Cookies

We understand that our web server automatically recognizes and records certain information about visitors to the Site. This includes date and time of access, IP address, web browser type and version, and address of the website from which you entered the Site. We understand that our web server does not record e-mail addresses. The site may utilize temporary, session-specific cookies to track website traffic. We understand that cookies do not reveal or contain any identifying or personal data, cannot read any information on your computer, and cannot interact with other cookies on your hard drive. Cookies stay on the user's hard drive to identify site visits and whether the user is a returning visitor.

Information We Share

We do not sell, rent, or otherwise share personal information about visitors of the Site. We may share non-personal information with third parties who provide us statistical information about the use of the Site. The Site may contain links to external websites for your convenience. We do not endorse these websites and are not responsible for the content, accuracy or privacy practices of such websites.

Information Security

We undertake reasonable security measures to protect the information collected through the Site. While we place a priority on the security of personally identifiable information, we cannot guarantee the security of any information you transmit to us through the Site.

Links to Other Websites

The Site may contain links to external websites for your convenience. We do not endorse these websites and are not responsible for the content, accuracy or privacy practices of such websites.

Refund Policy

Payments made through the Site for services rendered are deemed earned and are not refundable.

Updates to this Privacy Statement

We may change this statement at any time without prior notice to you. We will post a notice on the home page of the Site to notify you of any significant changes to this statement.

How to Contact Us

If you have any questions or comments about this Privacy Statement, please email us at david@cnalawfirm.com.com.